What is access management?

Access management improves traffic flow and safety by regulating, changing or eliminating access to and from major streets and highways.

Common ways to manage access include:

- Plan the location of traffic signals and local street connections

- Use medians to make left turns safer

- Provide dedicated turn lanes at intersections

- Plan a local "circulator" road system for vehicles traveling to and from major intersections